Mrs. Wilson's Lack of Jewelry. One of the things that Washington is noticing about Mrs. Wilson is the fact that she, the owner of a jewelry business that has been established for a century, wears almost no jewelry herself. One really handsome ornament seems to be about all she cares for even on state occasions, and most frequently she wears none. People observed, with a grin of rather maliclous delight, that the president went to St. Margaret's with Mrs. Wilson one Sunday. It was the first time, and downed the rumor that he was too good a Presbyterian to go inside an Episcopal church.-Washington Letter to Chicago Tribune.

MYSTERY OF THE BLACK COW

Ingenious Example of Means Used by German Scouts in France for Communicating Information.

A particularly ingenious example of the methods employed by German scouts in France for communicating information to their troops has been reported from France. It appears that the German intelligence department took an idea or two from the gypsies, who have a code of signs that they write on walls and fences as they pass along, for the information of other members of their clan.

A favorite sign with the Germans has been a black cow. That animal, roughly sketched in black crayon on walls, gates and fences, was frequently noticed by the French as, they passed, and was so crudely drawn that at first it aroused no suspicion. Sometimes it was small, sometimes large, now rampant, now couchant, and often the horns were ridiculously long in comparison with the rest of the animal. But it was not a case of bad drawing. The only things that mattered were the size and the direction in which it faced. The French officers discovered the secret of this system of signals.

A little cow signified that the road was only weakly defended; a moderate-sized cow meant that the allied troops were in the neighborhood; a large cow, was a warning that there were earthworks or trenches near by. The direction in which the cow's head pointed indicated where the danger lay. If it pointed into the air, that meant that the Germans had better reconnoiter the ground b aeroplane before advancing.

SEVERE TEST FOR WATCHES

During Competition at Royal Observatory, Greenwich, Chronometers Given Turn in Oven.

Only the best-made chronometer would ever survive the tests made at the Royal observatory, Greenwich. Usually there are about two hundred watches under examination for use in the royal navy. On certain occasions there is a complete trial of chronometers open to all makers who have sufficient confidence in their watches being able to withstand the severity of the tests.

During the competition the watches are exposed to every possible variation of temperature. They are baked in furnaces sufficiently hot to cook a

In fact, so great is the heat that a badly made watch has been known to tumble to pieces during the baking test. The moment a watch is taken out of the oven it is plunged into mixtures registering 40 degrees of frost.

To such perfection has the manufacture of some chronometers attained that even the most stringent tests fail to cause the slightest varia-

Great Britain Sends Tons of Testaments, Gospels, Etc., to Prac-tically Every Center.

Eleven tons of Testaments, gospels, portions and copies of the Psalms have just been dispatched from Great Britain by the British and Foreign Bible society for the prisoners of war in Russia.

"There were 54 cases, containing over 260,000 volumes," the secretary of the society told a London Daily Chronicle representative, "and the cost of printing them alone was well over £1,000. The volumes are printed in Polish, German, Hungarian and Bohemian. He had no stocks of such works in this country, so we had to make zinc photographs of 15 editions which we had and print them from those reproductions. The cases will travel free over the Swedish state railways."

Already similar Testaments and Gospel portions, printed in English, Russian, French and Armenian, have been distributed among the prisoners of the central powers, to the number of well over 400,000, and fresh supplies are still being sent.

"In addition to this," added the secretary, "over 2,000,000 volumes have been distributed, the greater part free, among the wounded in all the hospitals at home and abroad, and among the troops at all points. They have gone to practically every center, to the western front, to Gallipoli, Malta, Egypt, Cyprus and the Persian gulf."

The barnkeeper and assistants were playing rhum in the private car of Mr. Eschman. They heard big grunts from Little Nemo. They rushed out. The interior of the barn was blazing. The elephant had kicked over a gasoline stove in the straw. "Cap" Watkins rushed in. Little Nemo was fast losing her senses in the smoke. It was dark and the "Cap" groped about, untied Nemo's halter and shouted, "Come, Nemo!" Nemo came.

In the meantime someone had called the fire department. Before it arrived other assistants had removed the South American llama and the wagon of screaming monkeys from the barn

RAIDS MADE

Essex and Kent Visited by Airships Tuesday---Cruis-

London, April 26. -- Hostile airships aided the counties of Essex and Kent Tuesday night, according to an official statement. The number of raiders is uncertain. The communication adds, but they did not exceed four. The raiders were met by a brisk- anti-aircraft gunfire and retreated after achieving little or nothing."

London, April 25.-The following official announcement was made on the naval raid this morning:

"At about 4:30 o'clock this morning the German cruiser squadron, accompanied by light cruisers and destroyers, appeared off Lowestoft. The local naval forces engaged it and in about twenty minutes it returned to Germany, chased by our light cruisers and destroyers.

"On shore two men, one woman and a child were killed. The material damage seems to have been insignificant, so far as is known at present. Two British light cruisers and a destroyer were hit, but none was sunk."

On previous occasions attacks have been made on the English coast during the war by German warships. The most important raid was made Dec. 16, 1914. The towns of Scarwere killed. Aided by fog the German vessels escaped.

On Jan. 24, 1915, a further attempt of the kind was made but the German squadron was met off Doggerbank by the British battle cruiser squadron under Vice-Admiral Sir David Beaty. On being sighted the Germans made for home at high speed. Their rear ship, the Bluecher, was sunk and two the fact that I was adrift. How to Converse With Authors.

I have learned, says a writer in the Atlantic Monthly, that in conversations with authors there should be long pauses. This is because every remark. after being received by the ear, must be submitted to a strict brain analysis, and then given a soul bath before it is proper to venture a reply. I have found, also, that in answering too quickly I myself lose caste. I now make it a point never to respond to a question addressed to me by an author until I have counted twenty. If the author is very distinguished, I make it fifty for good measure.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly falling to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. > Easter Sunday was appropriately observed here. Most every one attended the services at the churches.

Miss Nell Wash died Monday morning, after an illness of some time. She was the youngest daughter of Mr. E. E. Wash.

Business is very good with the merchants of the town since J. W. Hancock & Co. have been buying and putting up tobacco here.

Holman & Jackson are still buying and shipping stock to the markets. Broadbent Bros. shipped a lot of hogs from here Saturday. Trigg is gaining a reputation as a stock raising

Our old friend, John Williams, of Pembroke, deserves credit for the sale he made here of a lot of thoroughbred hogs last year. It is now showing its good effects in the breeding of hogs in the county.

The latest in politics here is that our townsman, George Prentice Thomas, will be a candidate on the republican ticket for Congress in the First district.

Mr. Mat Holland, of near Rock Castle, Judge John D. Shaw, of Trigg Furnace, T. P. Light, of Canton, Fay Allen, of near Cumberland church and Gordon Mitchell, of Ferguson Springs district were here yesterday.

After Half a Century.

Payment of a bill due Jerry Hutchinson, who has been dead fifty-three years, has been received at Fairmount W. Va., from a man in Morgantown. The letter is written to M.

L. Hutchinson, of the late Jerry Hutchinson, who conducted a general store, Mrs. E. W. Arnett and C. F. Hutchinson are also surviving children. The letter follows:

"Dear sir: I owe the heirs of the late Jerry Hutchinson $1.50. Please hand Clyde and your sister their share, 50 cents each."

TAS the whole world gone stark mad over a very foolish and trivial question? Are swords rattling, cannon rumbling, mailed armour glistening just because Russia wanted to show her love for the little brother—Servia? Tear aside the curtain of Europe's politics and see the grim and sinister game of chess that is being played. See upon what a slim, yet desperate, excuse the sacred lives of millions are being sacrificed. Read the history of the past one hundred years, as written by some of the greatest authorities the world has ever known, and learn the naked, shameful truth. Just to get you started as a Review of Reviews subscriber, we make you this extraordinary offer. We will give to you

FREE - "Europe at War"

A hig book and over 300 pages, size 10 x 7 inches, handsomely and durably bound in cloth, containing the dramatic history of the great events leading up to the present time; over 50 important and timely special articles by experts on the different phases of the conflict; hundreds of graphic pictures, portraits, photographs, diagrams, specially drawn war maps, illuminating statistical records, copies of official documents and diplomatic messages exchanged between the powers—a clear, vivid, accurate, permanent, interesting and valuable record—a record which once seen you will not willingly be without. Europe's past and present are here dramatically pictured and presented. Hundreds of illustrations graphically tell their own stories. More fascinating than any romance, here is a history so vivid, so dra-matic, so stirring, so fascinating, so realistic, so wonderfully presented, so thrillingly told that it leaves an ineffacable impression.

Though the czar packed him away to the Caucasus and put others in his place at the head of the Russian levies sent to stem the tide of German invasion. Paris still cherishes its admiration of the tall, grim Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch, sometime generalissimo of the armies of Muscovy. And it is in Paris that they still tell this story: One evening, when his forces lay near the Polish frontier, the grand duke gave orders that all the persons engaged in purveying supplies to the soldiers should be assembled at nine o'clock alongside the track where the grand ducal train was stabled for the night. "I have a highly important communication to make to the individuals in question," Nicholas explained.

Promptly at the hour named the invited guests were on hand and stood in line respectfully waiting. They did not wait long. In not above a minute the grand duke stepped out of his car, facing the trades persons, and looked them over for several minutes in silence. Then he spoke:

"Gentlemen, what I have to say to you is very serious for you, and is comprised in exactly three words. Do not steal-or I'll hang every mother's son of you."

With that he turned on his heel and re-entered his car. The audience was at an end.

At Becket's Shrine.

The northern transept of Canterbury (Eng.) cathedral marks the spot of Becket's assassination, and for this reason is called "the Martyrdom." The choir stalls are inclosed with a beautiful screen of carved stone, executed by Prior d'Estria, and is one of the famous treasures of Canterbury. The archbishop's throne, with its canopy, commands your attention for a short time, and then you pass up the north aisle. In the adjoining chapels and about you are the tombs of the archbishops who were virtually the prime ministers of England for many reigns. The stones are worn by the feet of the pilgrims who visited the shrine of Becket.

GIRLS, CULTIVATE A SMILE

Pleasant Expression Will Bring Young Women From Ranks of Plainness to Heights of Beauty.

Cultivate your smiles unceasingly, girls. this does not mean that you must sit in street cars wearing an insipid grin. Not at all! It does not even mean that you must actually smile in the literal sense of the word. But your expression can be Breathitt, Allensworth smiling without your lips being parted at all. If you are thinking about pleasant occurrences your mouth will turn up at the corners and your eyes will sparkle, quite naturally and without any effort.

This will keep your face attractive and youthful, even when you have passed the borders of youth itself. If you wish to retain your beauty as long as possible, don't form the habit Now located at my old stand, 7th and of letting your lips droop and all your face muscles sag downward when your face is in repose.

Just stand before the mirror and pull your lines down to get the effect. Draw your mouth down and scowl a bit and you will see just how ugly those drooping lines can make you look. Then smile, not artificially but naturally, just a little around the lips, but a great deal in the eyes, and you will see how pretty you can ap-

If every woman realized how much harm she is doing to herself when she sits with her face muscles all relaxed and drooping she would try the smile cure for ugly lines. The smile can bring about magical results in lifting a girl from the ranks of plainness to the heights of actual beauty.

HAPPIEST MAN MOST HONEST

He Has No Bad Habits and So He Is Always Prosperous-He Works for Good Living.

We have noticed the happiest man many a time. He works for his living and he gets a good one. One thing we notice is he is a man of fine habits; doesn't squander a cent on liquor, tobacco or betting. He saves his money and is getting ready to buy some property. He loves his home, plays with the children, reads good books and keeps company with his wife. Because of his good habits he saves a little, which will give him a chance to make an investment.

And then there is another thinghe is a reliable man. He does good work. He will not smooth over bad work. He is honest in whatever he does. Every dollar he gets represents just that much of honest labor. It is this, largely, that makes him prosperous and happy.

Water keeps its own level, and so does conduct and character and prosperity. If a man is mean and low, so will the consequences be. He cannot be one thing and his experience another. A low-lived man may grow rich and happy, but it will not be for long. Anybody can tell what's the matter with a man if he is with him a day; he will soon see if the other is a spleen, a stomach, an uplift or a hope.—Ohio State Journal

CATCHES MONEY BY PHONE POST OFFICE WITHOUT A DOOR

When Bill Blows Out of Window Hotel Guest's Quick Wit and Action Saves It.

The quick wit of a guest in the Bellevue-Stratford saved him a goodsized banknote, a Philadelphia dispatch to the New York Sun says. In his room on the thirteenth floor, Broad street front, he was handling some money near an open window. A sudden gust of air lifted one of the bills and sent it through the window open-

Without waiting to see what would become of it he sprang to the tele-phone and told the house operator what had happened. In a twinkling she divined the remedy and called James Dinsmore at the baggage desk, which is located just inside the main Broad street door. He took in the situation immediately, though he afterward admitted he never had met quite a similar state of affairs, and inside of two seconds he was telling Mike Quinn, a porter, about the incident.

Mike was just as fast as the operator and the baggage clerk. He dashed out to Broad street and looked up. Sure enough, he saw the bill zigzagging its way down. It was passing the fifth floor, directly over the marquee. It swerved out, however, and fell into his waiting hands.

ROYAL VISIT WORKED WONDER

Wounded Italian Officer Recovered Speech in His Surprise at Seeing King Beside Him.

The king of Italy has been respon sible for one of the most extraordinary occurrences of the war. majesty has been constant in his visits to the wounded soldiers, and one day he arrived quite unexpectedly at a certain field hospital.

Among the patients there was a young lieutenant who had been stricken quite dumb by the bursting of an Austrian shell. The poor fellow was lying in bed feeling very miserable, when, all of a sudden, he glanced up and found the king standing by his

In a moment he stared up in amazement at the unexpected honor, and shouted at the top of his voice:

"His majesty the king!" and burst into a flood of tears.

The emotional shock, coming as it did, so unexpectedly, had completely restored his power of speech, and even the king himself was overcome by emotion at this extraordinary miracle.-Exchange.

Doctor Has 30,000 Patients.

Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, who is in charge of a division of the hospital unit that has been sent to France by Harvard university, has been termed "the doctor with the biggest practice in the world," says the London

The phrase is accurate enough, for his work as missionary among the fishermen in the northwest Atlantic has made him responsible for the physical as well as the spiritual welfare of some 30,000 men. As a medical superintendent of the Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen "Grenfell of Labrador" has in fact been preacher, misbined, and on one occasion he acted as judge.

He has worked 20 years in the North sea and Labrador, founded four hospitals, an orphanage, a co-operative institute and effected a real and beneficent transformation in the life of his deep-sea fishermen.

lin's Public Building Is to Be Rectified.

The General Post Office building in Dublin, writes an Irish correspondent, according to the Manchester Guardian, has long been a standing joke with the foreigner who has visited Ireland. It dates from 1820, and is an admirable piece of architecture, with its magnificent pillars that give out on the main thoroughfare of the city. Only, Francis Johnson, the Irish architect, forgot one thing. He forgot to add a door to the doorway or portico of the building. Descriptions of this splendid but ever-closed house, known to the natives as a post office, have gone all over Europe during the last hundred Familiarity breeds indifference (continues our correspondent), says the Guardian, and the curiosity of the thing seems to have struck very few of our own Dublin people. Besides, we knew, in fact, that it was possible to find a way into the place. We took, as a matter of course, the dark and devious approach of back streets to the side entrance through which one passed in single file. It was only a few days ago that we realized the situation. Workmen had been busy for some time at the front of the building, and now it has become evident that Johnson's omission is to be remedied. The door, which historians will, say it took a hundred years to make, gradually appears on Sackville street.

PRESERVE THE BIRDS.

Col. G. O. Shields of New York, Sportsmen, places the annual cost to farmers in this country because of the destruction of birds at $1,000,-000,000. "There are 10,000,000 shotguns in use." he said "and that number is being increased 500,000 every year. There are 900,000,000 shotgun cartridges being made and burned each year in an effort to get the remaining birds.

"The cotton growers are losing $100,000,000 a year because of the ravages of the boll weevil. Quails, prairie chickens, meadow larks and other birds that have been almost exterminated used to destroy these insects. Grain growers are losing a like amount because of the chinch bug. The Hessian fly is costing them $200,000,000 more."

Fell Out of Bed.

Gov. James B. McCreary is fond of relating a story of his experience with the late Justice John M. Harlan, who was his Republican opponent for Governor in his first race for the governorship in 1875.

The two candidates, who were warm personal friends, made the campaign together, stopping at the same hotel and sleeping in the same bed. On one occasion, as related by Gov. McCreary, he and Mr. Harlan had retired for the night when the latter remarked:

"Well, the next Governor of Kentucky is in this bed.'

But before he had finished the sentence the bed broke down and Mr. Harlan rolled out on the floor, whereupon his rival ventured the rejoinder;

"Yes, the next Governor of Ken-

> Cincinnati, April 26.-In a desperate pistol duel on Central avenue, in the heart of Cincinnati's business district, at noon Tuesday Patrolman Samuel Robbins was shot and killed, a pawnbroker named Louis Katz was probably fatally shot, while an unidentified man, accused by the police of doing the shooting, was in turn shot and probably fatally wounded by > Detective Albert Wegener. The police assert that Katz was shot when the unidentified man attempted to hold up the pawnbroker in his shop, that the man opened fire when Robbins hurried to Katz's assistance when the latter called for help and that Wegener, seeing his fellow officer fall, immediately shot the man.
